The Maternal Mental Health Alliance’s Everyone’s Business campaign is calling for all women throughout the UK with perinatal mental health conditions to receive the treatment they need, where and when they need it, as outlined in numerous national guidelines.

Take Action

Report showing £8.1 billion cost launched in Parliament

The report was produced by the London School of Economics and Centre for Mental Health for the Everyone’s Business campaign led by the Maternal Mental Health Alliance and funded by Comic Relief.

The event had attendees from across the United Kingdom committed to improving perinatal mental health services and included commissioners, ‘experts by experience’, MPs, national stakeholders, voluntary organisations and service providers.

Speakers included: Parliamentary Under Secretary of State for Health, Dr Dan Poulter MP; Andrea Leadsom MP; Dr Alain Gregoire, Chair of the Maternal Mental Health Alliance; Professor Martin Knapp, London School of Economics and Emily Slater, Everyone’s Business Campaign Manager.

Year 2 Everyone’s Business Campaign - what’s next?

The Everyone’s Business campaign is now already in year two! Year one saw the setting up of the campaign including the mapping of specialist perinatal mental health services across the UK, launching the campaign website, holding a ministerial roundtable, coordinating and launching the economic report and raising the profile of perinatal mental health amongst key stakeholders.

In year two the focus will be on: creating tools for local supporters; making strategic use of resources developed to date to ensure the Call to Act is heard and implemented at national and local levels. We also look forward to working with new MMHA members - the Alliance has now grown to over 70 members!

"I visited a fantastic perinatal mental health service in Torbay where mums are getting support locally, as indeed they should be. It is unacceptable that people have to travel long distances but across the country things are changing…" - Minister of State for Care and Support, Rt Hon Norman Lamb MP

Thank you to Dr Sarah Jones, Clinical Fellow from The National Centre for Mental Health, Cardiff, for sharing this. Thank you also to Centre for Mental Health colleagues for their invaluable support in organising the report launch.
Leading Academics highlight their concerns

The Times published a letter signed by 70 leading academics (on Monday 20th October 2014), highlighting concerns about gaps in services for women with mental health problems during the perinatal period. The letter also referenced the recent Economic report and urged UK governments to improve perinatal mental health services.

Shadow Minister for Public Health visits Channi Kumar MBU

20th October saw Luciana Berger MP visit the Channi Kumar Mother and Baby Unit (MBU) to find out more about the specialist inpatient perinatal mental health services provided. Ms Berger met current and former patients from the unit, as well as clinicians and nurses, at Bethlem Royal Hospital and talked to them about perinatal mental health.

’Too many new and expectant mums are being badly let down. The government has a duty to reduce these avoidable costs. They must do more to ensure that perinatal mental illness is identified as early as possible and that all women have access to the help and support they need’

Luciana Berger MP, Shadow Minister for Public Health

Tips for Commissioners & Health Providers

Want to improve perinatal mental health services in your area? Not sure where to start?

1. Use the Questions in the Checklist here to start to explore current gaps in your area.
2. Have a query about how best to plug the gaps - check the Joint Commissioning Panel for Mental Health Guidance / contact: info@everyonesbusiness.org.uk
3. Part of a Strategic Clinical Network (or equivalent) and looking for a presentation about perinatal mental health / addressing the gaps? Please contact the campaign team to arrange a presentation for your network members: info@everyonesbusiness.org.uk
4. Based in a specialist perinatal mental health service in an AMBER area on the map, and looking for guidance to get to GREEN? Please contact rrodell@rcpsych.ac.uk to become a member (for a fee) of the Quality Network for Perinatal Mental Health Services.

FOI Findings from NCT

NCT coordinated and provided resources for a Freedom of Information request with 186 out of 194 CCG’s in England replying. Findings from summer 2014 included:

- 54% said they do not provide any perinatal mental health service
- 18% said they were developing or planning to develop a strategy
- 3% have a strategy for providing perinatal mental health services

A huge thank you to NCT for coordinating & resourcing this - very much appreciated!

World Mental Health Day in Northern Ireland

A staggering 80% of areas in Northern Ireland have no access to specialist community perinatal mental health services, and there is not a single inpatient Mother and Baby unit in the whole of Ireland. The Northern Ireland Association for Mental Health (Niamh), a member of the MMHA, marked this year’s World Mental Health Day (October 10th) with a one day seminar to address perinatal mental health needs in Northern Ireland. The day brought together key voluntary and community organisations, professional bodies, clinicians, and women and their families.

LSE’s 6 Reasons for Action

1. Only half of maternal mental health problems are recognised and diagnosed
2. The costs are high, wide-ranging and long-lasting
3. The costs are mainly as a result of not identifying mothers’ mental health needs or treating them adequately
4. Mental illness has been stigmatised for too long and people with mental health problems have been discriminated against for too long
5. Mothers are already in the healthcare system – utilise these professionals
6. Invest in the lives of infant children in the UK

MMHA Member spotlight

The Maternal Mental Health Alliance (MMHA) has over 70 national members. Each e-Bulletin aims to introduce one member in further detail. For a list of all current members, www.maternalmentalhealthalliance.org.uk

Action on Postpartum Psychosis (APP) is a registered charity bringing together families affected by Postpartum Psychosis, specialist clinicians and researchers - a powerful collaboration for increasing awareness, education and action on severe postnatal mental illness. Feedback from families affected by Postpartum Psychosis (PP) is that they can feel incredibly alone in their experience and they hope for greater awareness of PP among health professionals and the general public.

With Big Lottery funding, APP offer online peer-support to families affected by PP. Insider Guides, leaflets and web information are written in collaboration with those with lived experience and academic experts. The guides advise on specific topics including pregnancy after PP, recovery and information for partners. APP has a network of Regional Representatives and volunteers, who support the building of relationships with local health professionals and communities, raise awareness, educate and fundraise to support work with families.

APP facilitates high quality research into causes, management and experience of PP, and publicises other studies into PP from around the world. APP passionately believes specialist Mother and Baby Unit beds should be available to all women across the UK, and is the proud official host (on behalf of the MMHA) of the Everyone’s Business campaign.

Perinatal explained...
Peri is the Latin for ‘around’, and natal is the Latin for ‘birth’. We use ‘perinatal mental illness’ to refer to mental illness during pregnancy and one year after birth.
